

YATES, NORMA JEAN

Norma Jean, four-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Yates, died last Thursday morning and was buried in the Wheatland cemetery the following day with the Watson Mortuary in charge.

YATES, NORMA JEAN
August 27, 1928-

Two babies have recently successfully graduated from the incubator at the hospital, and now it has another occupant. We trust that the number three will be attended by its proverbial good luck, for this baby weights but two pounds, three ounces. "She would make a good sized peanut", as one visitor remarked, "but hardly up to specifications for a baby." However, at ten days old, she is going strong, and at ten years, we trust that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R.G. Yates of Uva, may be just as proud of her energy and vitality as they are now. The baby has been given the name of Norma Jean.
